GET TO KNOW OUR URBAN FOREST. GO ON OAKVILLEGREEN'S TREE TOUR

On Saturday, October 25th, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Oakvillegreen Conservation Association and its affiliated group, Ground Breakers Oakville, will hold the first Urban Forest Tree Tour. All ages are welcome to attend.

Take a bus tour of Oakville's urban forest and hear remarkable tales about local trees that you won't forget.

Visit several remarkable trees, hear stories about local heroes of our urban forest and see a few interesting projects to improve tree health.

A packed lunch will be provided to everyone on the tour.

Cost of the tour for adults who are not members of Oakvillegreen is $10. There is no cost for OCA members or students aged 17 and younger.

Space is limited; please reserve your spot with Emma Admans by calling 647-409-5298 or emailing her at emurphy@treeinitiatives.com

For more information on Oakvillegreen Conservation Association's Full Circle Tree Initiatives, contact Emma Murphy at emurphy@treeinitiatives.com or go to www.oakvillegreen.org

Oakvillegreen would like to thank The Oakville Trillium Foundation for supporting our Full Circle Tree Initiatives

PARTNERS IN SUCCESS

ATHENA

SPONSOR PROFILE

Celebrating the potential of all women as valued members and leaders of the community, and recognizing those who support them,

ATHENA Oakville enters its twelfth year. Without sponsorship, this would not be possible. ATHENA Oakville recognizes that a huge part of ATHENA'S success is due to the generosity of sponsors. This ad is an ongoing series paying tribute to our sponsors and in their own words they tell us why they feel involvement with ATHENA is important.

RBC ROYAL BANK™

At RBC, diversity in our workplace allows ground breaking ideas to surface and is responsible for our corporate success and for the development of prosperous communities. We would like to thank all women for their leadership and their dedication to their communities. Our values are closely aligned to the values of ATHENA and as a result a beneficial relationship has formed; one that nourishes and recognizes the qualities of exceptional women leaders. RBC is proud of our relationship with ATHENA and we know that sponsorship will support the recognition of women leaders in Oakville as well as encourage others to assist in the development of our future leaders.

FOR A GOOD CAUSE: Above, Halton Regional Police Chief Gary Crowell listens to the charges alleged against him Friday afternoon before acting judge and chair of the Halton Police Services Board Robert Maich at the Jail and Bail fundraiser. The event was staged in Hopedale Mall's centre court to raise awareness and funds for Crime Stoppers of Halton. Top, joining Crowell behind bars are, from left, Oakville MPP Kevin Flynn, Bob Waller, president of the Halton Regional Police Association and Burlington MP Mike Wallace.

Town honours heritage tree hunt winners

The winners of the Oakville Great Heritage Tree Hunt will be honoured tonight (Wednesday) at Town Hall.

A celebration will be held at 7 p.m. in the South Atrium of Town Hall located at 1225 Trafalgar Rd.

It will honour the winners of the Great Heritage Tree Hunt Nomination and Photo Contest co-hosted by the Town of Oakville and Oakvillegreen Conservation Association.

It aimed to find exceptional examples of heritage trees in the community. Residents of all ages were invited to nominate or photograph trees in any of 18 categories.

For more information, visit www.oakville.ca or www.oakvillegreen.org.
